Making Beef Better

A BROAD STATEMENT PROVEN EVERY DAY.

Making Beef Better is as definitive of a description as we can think of for Gardiner Angus Ranch's perpetual pursuit of supplying the beef business with elite, high quality Angus genetics. At the end of the day, we're only successful if our customers are successful. For more than 50 years, the foundation of our total AI and ET program has been the disciplined selection of progeny proven, high accuracy genetics. Today, our ability to laser focus on producing Angus cattle with calving ease, early, explosive growth, moderate stature, maternal function and USDA Prime beef has never been better.

FOUR SALES EACH YEAR ENABLE PROGRESSIVE BEEF PRODUCERS TO MAKE VALUE-ADDED SELECTIONS TO FIT THEIR ENVIRONMENTS.

Mortality has gone way down. The use of First Defense products has proven to be a major weapon in the fight against neonatal scours on our dairy herds. Calves in our care get protected as soon as they hit the ground. If it was more complicated than that, I wouldn't be standing here.

There are several ways to incorporate concentrate feed into a winter feeding program that will supplement hay. (Photo by Todd Johnson, OSU Agricultural Communications Services)

Creative Feed Strategies For Wintering Cows Are Helpful But Costly

By Dan Ellis

STILLWATER, OK—With hay in short supply, producers are trying to avoid cattle herd liquidation this winter by feeding their cattle alternative feedstuffs.

Paul Beck, Oklahoma State University Extension specialist in beef nutrition, said there are several ways concentrate feed can be used to meet a cow's nutrient requirements. Although these other feed resources are available, all feed costs are high and will require additional labor and management for a winter feeding program.

Producers can incorporate the following strategies with concentrate feed:

• Limit feeding hay by unrolling or distributing hay in measured amounts to meet daily needs, thus providing concentrate feed to supplement for deficient nutrients.

• Provide a total mixed ration of hay and concentrate mixed at an amount that only supports the required nutrients.

• Provide free-choice hay and feed a lower-energy supplement in an amount that will reduce hay intake.

Beck said in all scenarios, it is best to feed cows their supplement and hay at the same time each day. Reducing hay amounts and limiting the time cattle have access to hay will result in very low hay waste, as well as daily feeding processed hay in a total mixed ration. Feeding free-choice hay with high supplement levels will result in high levels of hay waste and sorting.

"Concentrate feeding levels required to reduce hay intake will need to be over 0.7 to 1% of body weight of dry matter or more, so a 1,200-pound cow will need to be fed up to 13 to 14 pounds of feed a day," Beck said. "This can be fairly low in energy to meet the cow's requirements."

Producers can also request assistance from OSU Extension educators in evaluating their current feeding practices through a feeder calibration clinic, featured on OSU Extension's agriculture television show, SUNUP. For more information, contact Dana Zook, OSU Extension west district area livestock specialist, at 580-237-7677 or dana.zook@okstate.edu.

OSU Extension uses research-based information to help all Oklahomans solve local issues and concerns, promote leadership and manage resources wisely throughout the state's 77 counties. Most information is available at little to no cost.

NCBA Statement On New WOTUS Rule

WASHINGTON, D.C.—Recently, the National Cattlemen's Beef Association (NCBA) issued the following statement on the Biden administration's finalized Waters of the U.S. (WOTUS) rule. "For too long, farmers and ranchers have dealt with the whiplash of shifting WOTUS definitions. Today, the Biden administration sought to finalize a WOTUS definition that will protect both our nation's water supply and cattle producers across the nation," said NCBA Chief Counsel Mary-Thomas Hart. "While the rule retains longstanding, bipartisan WOTUS exclusions for certain agricultural features, it creates new uncertainty for farmers, ranchers, and landowners across the nation."

New Livestock Risk Management Handbook Available To Producers

STILLWATER, OK—In partnership with Texas A&M University, Amy Hagerman, OSU Extension specialist for agriculture and food policy, recently co-authored Where's the Risk? A Livestock Risk Management Handbook, with a variety of financial resources for producers. "Many livestock producers aren't aware that certain financial assistance programs exist, so the main motivation behind putting the handbook together was to provide a ready reference that gives them the basic information of what's available, so they know what questions to ask and who to ask," Hagerman said. "Then they can go talk to the USDA or their county Extension offices to get the information and programs they need."

Start The Year On The Right Foot With Your Cattle Record-Keeping System

STOCKTON, MO—As the year ends, University of Missouri Extension livestock specialist Patrick Davis urges cattle producers to evaluate their record-keeping system to determine if it was successful.

T/D Doc Ryan 049 ~ 19820224 ~ Our $525,000 genetic masterpiece.

PRODUCERS RAVE ABOUT DOC RYAN PROGENY

At Herbster Angus Farms, our customers' success is our utmost concern. We believe nothing speaks louder or bolder than satisfied customers. The first Doc Ryan calves to sell this spring have caused quite a stir!

Schrock Doc 32 ~ Schrock's Angus Farms $15,000 Doc Ryan record-seller!

Titus Schrock, owner of Schrock's Angus Farms in Brock, Nebraska, said "I sold the highest selling bull in the history of my farm for $15,000. He was a Doc Ryan." Titus went on to explain that the Doc Ryan calves are some of his stand-outs, saying "I have a Doc Ryan heifer that is the best calf to walk on this place."

Schrock's experience isn't the only report to shout the excellence of Doc Ryan. John Mohnen of Mohnen Angus in White Lake, South Dakota says, "The Doc Ryan calves, from an early stage, have lots of vigor, explosive early growth with tons of chest capacity, and depth of body."

DOC RYAN JUMPS THROUGH EVERY HOOP

"THEY HAVE A WOW FACTOR UNLIKE ANY OTHER SET OF CARCASS-BRED CALVES."- ED RAITHEL

Ed Raithel, manager of Herbster Angus Farms, says "They've exceeded all expectations and are very vigorous at birth. What surprises me the most is the amount of muscle and style the Doc Ryans have, and how easy they came. They have a WOW factor unlike any other set of carcass-bred calves that I've seen. The consistency we've seen when used on all cow types is awesome. There are no throwaways." Raithel continued on to say, "We sold an $85,000 son of Doc Ryan in our 2023 sale. Our customers love the Doc Ryan cattle. They averaged $14,250. In addition, they carcass scan very well. We had a heifer scan over 11 on %IMF and that's amazing. The Doc Ryans averaged 104 on IMF in our herd."

Herbster Lucky Seven 256 ~ 20458552
Herbster Angus Farms' $85,000 Highest-Selling Doc Ryan son of the 2023 spring bull sale season. We are delighted to partner with KDS Angus, Lenox, Iowa on this geat young bull.

"THE DISPOSITION ON DOC RYAN CALVES IS SECOND-TO-NONE, AND THE FERTILITY [OF THE SEMEN] WAS VERY GOOD FOR US." - MARLON SCOTT

Marlon Scott and his wife, Kelly, own and operate Scott Angus Cattle in Belgrade, Nebraska. Marlon said, "When I first saw Doc Ryan, I immediately knew how to breed to him. He is an improver. When used correctly, he will take the holes out of just about everything." Marlon continued, "Last, but not least, the disposition on his calves is second-to-none, and the fertility [of the semen] was very good for us."

SAC Blackbird 2316 ~ This Doc Ryan daugher was the $16,500 high-seller for Scott Angus Cattle, Nebraska.

Our world-class bulls are collected in accordance with our new industry standard, 40-million-count semen concentration. They are all collected at North American Breeders Inc.,
